

July issue 2013: Still rising: Wallpaper* celebrates Richard Rogers at 80

Wallpaper*, the international design, fashion and lifestyle magazine talks exclusively to architecture icon Richard Rogers about his past and present projects in the July Design Directory issue, out now.

With new projects spanning the globe with his firm Rogers Stirk Harbour + Partners and an upcoming exhibition at the Royal Academy, Lord Rogers, who turns 80 in July, shows no sign of retiring. In addition to designing this month's limited-edition cover, the great British architect also took the time to create a bespoke London cycle map exclusively for Wallpaper* subscribers. The map traces two routes through the city taking in his own architectural contributions, as well as a selection of his favourite London spaces.

From Rogers to the rising stars, the issue also presents our annual round-up of emerging talents in the Architects Directory. Offerings range from a private residence in rural Michigan to a sculptural pavilion in Sydney. Other features include Ian Schrager and John Pawson's temperature-raising project in South Beach and Italian design doyenne Gabriella Crespi's collaboration with Sergio Rossi.

Tony Chambers, Wallpaper* Editor-in-Chief, writes in his letter: 'Wallpaper* is, as Lord Rogers writes on this month's limited-edition cover, "a place for all people, the young and the old". Happy Birthday Richard.'

The July issue of Wallpaper* is out now in stores in 93 countries. To see a close-up of Richard Rogers' photo diary and a digital version of his London cycle map, download the iPad edition (see Wallpaper.com/iPad).
